ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In order to freely control the ratio of video data to search data so as to record them, an MPEG video encoder codes an input video picture in order to create video data. A search-data creation circuit creates search data based on the video data and adds a macro block address to the search data.